

10 SMART QUESTIONS EVERY PARENT SHOULD ASK BEFORE CHOOSING AN ORTHODONTIST

Choosing the right orthodontist for your child is a big decision — one that affects not just their smile, but their confidence and comfort for years to come. This quick guide will walk you through the questions that matter most, what answers to look for, and how to tell if an office is the right fit for your family.

- What are my child's treatment options, and which do you recommend — and why?

Look for: A thoughtful, personalized explanation. Avoid vague or one-size-fits-all answers.

- How long will treatment take — and how often will we need to come in? Look for: Clear timelines and realistic expectations based on your child's age and needs.

- What is the total cost of treatment? Are there any hidden fees?

Look for: Transparent pricing and willingness to explain what's included.

- Do you offer flexible payment plans or financing?

Look for: Clear monthly options and no pressure to pay in full upfront.

- How experienced are you with the specific treatment we're considering (e.g., Invisalign Teen)?

Look for: Confidence and relevant credentials, not just "we do it all."

- What technology do you use for diagnosis and treatment planning?

Look for: Modern tools like 3D imaging, not outdated X-rays alone.

- What's your policy if treatment doesn't go as expected or takes longer? Look for: A fair, supportive policy that shows they stand behind their work.

- How do you handle emergencies (e.g., broken brackets or lost aligners)? Look for: A clear, patient-first approach — and same-day service if needed.

- Can we see before-and-after photos of past patients?

Look for: Real results, ideally from cases similar to yours.

- What's the office atmosphere like — and how do you make kids feel comfortable?

Look for: A warm, welcoming environment where staff truly care about your child's experience.
